

Seminar on Social Awareness

Deborah Choate, MD & Karen Melikian PhD

Like other social groups in the United States, Psychoanalysis is reevaluating its attitudes and practices toward the sociopolitical world. In this seminar, we would like to contribute to and enhance this process by actively exploring the interaction of the personal and the sociopolitical in our own work.

In the past, psychoanalysts have tended to de-emphasize, if not pathologize the influence of the sociopolitical on the individual psyche. We will briefly consider some of the historical reasons for this trend before turning our focus to how race, class and culture affect current psychoanalytic practice. Together, we will attempt to illuminate how these issues affect transference and countertransference with an eye toward identifying how psychoanalysts (and psychoanalysis) may, consciously or un-, perpetuate some prevailing social realities.
